The Plate Workers and the Disner Patt.

The tin plate workers want a 15 per cent advance in wages. As McKinley's election and the Disney bill were for the advancement of workingment's wages. Senator Ethins to the contrary notwith-attanding—the fin plate men have evidently concluded it was high time they were getting their share, and they are going after it.—Register.

This is an eminently fair(7) comment. Of course the Hegister knows that the

Of course the Elegister knows Dingley bill is not yet a law, and that the tin plate workers are working under the tariff rates of the Wilson law which promised so much for the poor work-Their wages were not reduced until the McKinley act was repealed by a Democratic Congress. The Register knows this, and so do the tin plate work-

The new tariff bill now pending does not restore the full McKinley rates, w regret to say, but it is an increase over Mr. Wilson's wage destroying measure, and it is hoped will afford at least some of the desired relief. If it does not, then, according to the Republican policy and practice, it should, and no doubt will, be further increased.

The tin plate workers have not forgotten that when, under the McKinley tariff, they were receiving fair wages, every free trade organ in the country, including the Register, was howling about "taxation of the poor man's dinner pall." Though 90 per cent of the cost of the pall represented labor well paid, the organs worked their cry to such effect that a free trade Congress was elected, the tin plate tariff was reduced and down came wages, and they have been coming down ever

It has worked just as every thing else It has worked just as every thing else that was tampered with by the Wilsonian theorists worked. To-day we are witnessing a great strike of built starved tailors, as a partial result of the cheap clothing cry by these same theorists in the same cam-Other things have contributed to this strike, but the principal cause is that the cheap clothing Mr. Wilson promised us has become too cheap and the effect has fallen on the producers. And so it is all along the line. In the language of William McKinley, "cheap clothes make cheap men." The principle will apply in

The Senate Turns Over a New Leaf.

The senate is surprising the country. After having brought down upon its head the condemnation of waiting citisens throughout the land on account of its proverbial slowness, and its too deliberative methods in times of great emergencies, and having been a long while getting at the tariff bill, thus further trying the petience of everybody, it suddenly overturns all its precedents for slow action, and actually "gets a hustle on itself.

We are told in the dispatches that senators are rigidly adhering to the programme not to delay final action on the tariff bill with long-winded "academic" speeches, and that the opposition to the measure is refraining from fillbustering tactics, and doing absolutely nothing to obstruct the Republican plan to consider the bill with as much dispatch as possiedure is encouraging to the country and is doing much to redeem in the minds of the people those senators who have heretofore held the reputation of being obstructionists. It gives promise that within a very few weeks the uncertainty and uneasiness which always exists while any sort of tariff measure is pending will be over, and that the business of the country can begin to adjust itself to the new conditions.

senators have begun all right. Let us hope they will keep up the good

Dishouest Journalism.

Some of the Democratic papers in the state are still publishing the falsehood that Senator Elkins favors lower wages, despite his emphatic denial of the statement alleged to have been made by him, and despite his very full explanation of his position on the wage question, and his further statement that there can be no real prosperity with low wages, because low wages lessen the powers of con-

These editors seem to think they are performing their highest duty to their own party in persistently misrepresenting a leader of another party. Some recent statement, published in the Intelligencer, space in their columns, but the majority continue to ignore it. Some editors have queer ideas of what consti-tutes fair and honest journalism.

The authorized announcement that Mr. John R. McLean will enter the race for United States senator from Ohio makes a very lively campaign of a peculiar sort in that state. Mr. McLean's claim to the distinction, if he has any, is that he is a rich man and is always willing to put his money where it will do the most good for himself.

If the Democratic party in Ohio were would be laughed out of existence. As its leader in the campaign contest. The good Ohio Democrats are all dead. They have been dead or driven out of politics for lo these many years. has arisen a rich man willing to buy a place for himself and not very nice about his methods. Mr. Payne was one of these, Mr. Brice was another. Both of these men bought themselves into the United States senate. Mr. McLean is encouraged by their success.

But when Mr. Payne and Mr. Brice tri-umphed the legislature was Democratic. It will not be Democratic this time and Mr. McLean cannot buy his way through a Republican senate. All the same his candidacy insures the next campaign in Ohio against being dull. His money will make the fight lively enough.

The Governor and the University.

One of the things that are commending Governor Atkinson to the people is the intense interest he is taking in the welfare of the state's educational institutions. Always an enthusiastic friend of the public schools, as well as of the institutions for higher learning, it was expected that as governor he would see that his administration policy toward them would be progressive and tend to their upbuilding, and in this respect as in all other respects, the administration is not disappointing.

The governor's interest in the welfare of the university, West Virginia's chief institution of learning, is manifested by his expressed desire that the occasion of the annual commencement, on June 8 and 9, shall be of such a character that it will attract more than local attention he desires the attendance of all the state officials, including himself and his entire military staff, and has commanded the latter to be present.

There will be more in the appearance of the staff than the mere glamour of goldlace. It will be a recognition of the importance of the university as a factor in the advancement of the state, and the eplightening influence that goes out from t into every community.

West Virginia has been peculiarly forand Governor Atkinson, in making this just recognition on a more extended plan is keeping thee with the progressive spirit that is fast making West Virginia one of the great states of the Union, in culture as well as in wealth.

A Newspaper Man's Obligations.

When the court gets through trying Havemeyer and Searles for contemptuously refusing to answer questions put by the senste committee in the sugar trust investigation, the case of Shriver, a newspaper correspondent in contempt, is to come up. Mr. Shriver, being put on he rack, declined to give away the source of information used in certain articles which he wrote on the sugar schedule of the Wilson tariff. This Mr. Shriver did from a sense of professional duty.

The trial of this newspaper man for this offense will give another court a chance to say whether a newspaper man is obliged to reveal the sources of his information. Relations the most confiden tial are established between newspaper men and other persons who know some-thing worth knowing. A large part of the news of the day is gathered in this way. To reveal these sources would in many cases be to dry them up, and others like them.

Not only as a matter of honorable obligation is a newspaper man piedged to secrecy, but his profes-sional interests lie on the same side. He must keep faith or he will soon reach the length of his string. The worst that can happen to Mr. Shriver, or to any newspaper man in a like situation, is to be punished for respecting his obligation. Any newspaper man who oppreciates the ethics of his calling would much rather be punished than to show himself unworthy of confidence.

Our Diplomatic Representatives,

and for his country's, when the French government insisted that Ambassador Porter should address the president of the French republic in French when he presented his credentials. Ambassador Porter speaks the French language. If he had not been able to do this is would certainly have been mortifying all

In these days a man who aspires to represent his country abroad should have among other qualifications a knowledge of the language of the country to which he asks to be accredited. We believe it to be true that no European government would send a diplomatic representative to a country with whose language he was

Our own country has sent abroad some excellent men who made good representatives without having command of any other language than the English, but in the nature of the case the same men would have done better if they had been petter equipped. Scarcely any European is called an educated man who has not command of two tongues, and French is always one. Most educated Europeans write and speak more than two languages.

Senator Hanna Don't want the tariff on beer increased. Why kick against that particular schedule if the foreigner pays the tax.—Grafton Leader.

The above is about as intelligent as the average criticism to be found in the Pepocratic press. There is no proposition to "increase the tariff on beer." The pro-posal is to increase the internal revenue

The indications are that the senate tariff bill will not run against many snags during its consideration. first ten pages the voting on all the paragraphs showed a clear majority in their favor. Some protection sentiment is cropping out even in the Democratic

KINDLY EXPRESSIONS. Difficult to Understand.

William E. Curtis, in Chicago Record; Charles Burdett Hart, who has been nominated as minister to the republic of Colombia, is the handsome and ac-complished editor of the Wheeling Incompilshed editor of the Wheeling In-telligencer, who laid the foundations of his successful career by several years' experience as a correspondent in Wash-ington, and who is still looked up to by those who know him here as an emi-nent scholar and an ideal gentleman. It is difficult to understand why President McKinley should banish so good a man as Mr. Hart from this country.

Hearty Congratulations.

If the Democratic party in Ohio were in good health Mr. McLean's candidacy ronage of this state received a decided impetus yesterday when the name of the brilliant editor of the Wheeling Intelligencer was sent to the senate for confirmation as minister to Colombia. The critical and curious began to raise apprehensive murmurs on account of the President's apparent delay in this important appointment, but Mr. Hart clearly held the reins and his interests only abided the natural evolution of executive business. He will comament the diplomatic service with envisible shillings, and will infune into his own duties an energy which is his heritage and the wisdom of a ripened political experience. He has our occupantiations.

Paverably Commensee.

Favorably Commended.

being favorably commented upon. It is that of Charles Burdett Hart, of West Virginia, to be minister of the United States to Colombia, Mr. Hart is editor of the Wheeling Intelligencer, and was formerly an editorial writer of the Press.

He was strongly indorsed for the appointment by Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, and other men of national influence, on account of the effective work he has done for the Republican cause in West Virginia. The influence he wielded through his paper is considered by Republican leaders as a powerful factor in redeeming his state from Democracy.

From a Democratic Senarce.

From a Democratic Source

Charleston Casette, (Dem.): The ap-pointment of Charles Burdett Hart to be the envoy of this government to the United States of Colombia is in every United States of Colombia is in every way creditable. Mr. Hart is an accomplished gentleman, a student of governmental affairs, and a man of high personal character. No better appointment has been made in the diplomatic service by President McKinley. Mr. Hart's absence in the scruice of his country will be a loss to his party. His virile defense of Republicanism will be missed from the Journalism of the state. The honor conferred on Mr. Hart is conspicuous, but not more than his party service has entitled him to.

Good Wishes.

Martinsburg World (Dem.); Mr. Hart is a recognized leader of the Republican party in this state, and is an able news-paper man of many years' experience. He has our best wishes.

Hearty Congratulations.

Parkersburg Duily Journal: The no nation of Editor Charles Burdett Hart, of the Wheeling Intelligencer, to be of the Wasering Intelligencer, to be United States minister to Cofombia, with residence at Bogota, is a deserved compilment by President McKinley to a faithful friend and influential party leader. Mr. Hart will fill the high position with distinguished ability and credit to himself and the great mation which he will represent. While the appointment has been confidently expected, the announcement of it is the occasion of general and hearty congratulations from all sections of the state and from Republicans generally. Mr. Hart has been a nower in Republican councils in this state, and being the head of a great paper has advocated Mr. McKinley's persund fortunes with zeal and effectiveness; at the same time championing all measures looking to the success of the Republican party before the people. He has been earnest and aggressive and we do not begrudge his his well earned recognition, but, on the contrary, extend our hearty felicitations. May his stay in the South American republic be pleasant and profitable. United States minister to Colombia, with

Service Recognized.

New York Mall and Express: In the appointment of Charles Burdett Hart, of West Virginia, as minister to Colombia, West Virginia, as minister to Colombia, President McKinley has paid a distinguished and altosether deserved tribute to a gentleman whose services have contributed enormously to the stoccess of the Republican party in the state with whose interests he is conspicatously identified. Mr. Hart, as editor of the Wheeling Intelligencer, has given the cause of Republicanism and protection an able and aggressive exponent, whose keen and persistent warfare upon free trade has been largely instrumental in over throwing the West Virginia Democracy. In character, attainments and patriotism he is a type of the best American citizenship, and his career in the diplomatic service cannot fail of constant usefulness to his government or of honor to himself.
